This new way of creating player animations, which was first introduced in FIFA 19, makes a series of changes to the way humans look on the pitch. This is the first year that FIFA's developers have made changes to how humans move on the pitch, rather than just improving and creating animations based on the players' real-life movement. "Real-life motion capture technology creates a more authentic overall performance and movement feel," said Mark Suster, Senior Producer at EA SPORTS. "HyperMotion Technology is a groundbreaking approach to creating player animation, and it's what allows us to seamlessly marry real-life player movement to the performance of the game. Players feel stronger, more dynamic and truly alive, allowing them to play at a higher speed and complete more moves to create more opportunities on the pitch." This introduction of motion capture technology is the latest evolution in the FIFA franchise as an annual series of updates introduce new gameplay features into the series. From the inclusion of the new 15-a-side multiplayer mode to the introduction of the new Pro Draft mode, FIFA continues to evolve into a player's ultimate football experience. Professional Commentary is Back! This year, a historic commitment was made to the inclusion of human commentary in the series. For the first time in franchise history, a men's English Premier League team has recorded a 2019 FIFA 20 commentary team in-game. Arsenal's man of the moment, Kieran Clark, recorded commentary alongside three other staff members for the Gunners. This year's announcements at E3 this year saw the addition of a FIFA franchise commentary team with Simon Thomas, John Nicholson, Daniel Mellor, and James Richardson joining the 2018 FIFA 19 commentary team that was introduced last year. The announcement of this year's commentary team comes two years after the announcement of FIFA 18's commentary team which included Jon Champion, Frank Arneburger, Gareth Ainsworth, and John Bishop. The announcement of a full commentary team marks an evolution of a series of announcements from EA SPORTS that often included a new off-screen commentator or two. Previous announcements included adding the Euro Cup, UEFA Super Cup and UEFA Champions League, the expansion of the World Club Cup, and major tournaments that weren't previously included in the annual series of gameplay upgrades. In addition, the long-awaited inclusion of Game Awards and Critics' Choice Awards. FIFA 20 also marks

FIFA has always been about who you are but we believe FUT represents a step change for football and the way we can experience it. The FIFA 22 Team of the Year presented by adidas is powered by the all-new Move Ball Technology (MBT) 2.0. MBT 2.0 uses a force-feedback system to help players be more connected to the ball. With the new system, players feel as if they are handling the ball while the ball passes through it, meaning you'll get an improved sense of control and confidence when receiving a pass or shooting at goal. The new ball physics combined with the all-new 1:1 pass motion provides a much more realistic ball feel that reduces the feeling of having to fling the ball, the authenticity has never been better. You'll be able to pass more assuredly, receive passes with both feet and shoot with more confidence. The more connected you feel to the ball, the more you'll be able to control and deliver the ball's true movement and power. You'll be able to use your right foot with a greater sense of accuracy when passing and can once again trust the accuracy of your shoots. You'll be able to use your right foot with a greater sense of accuracy when
